In addition, we also offer you state-of-the-art cleaning, maintenance and repair of containers: Chemion stands for your competent complete solution, in particular when it comes to hazardous substances and dangerous goods.

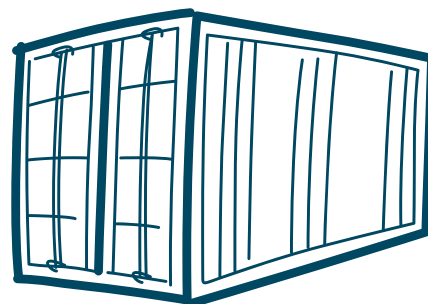

State-of-the-art container terminals.

Our container terminals are placed in strategically favourable locations. These facilities are among the most extensive storage and freight terminals for hazardous goods in Germany. Their location ensures excellent connections to the ports of Antwerp, Rotterdam and Amsterdam (ARA) as well as to public CT (Combined Transport) terminals. Two bi-modal terminals offer more than 720 storage locations at the CHEMPARK sites in Leverkusen and Dormagen, Germany. Our tri-modal terminal in Leverkusen provides the flexibility to integrate waterways into your transportation method.

Suitable containers.

Our equipment includes containers for all requirements. The following options are available: 20-foot ISO tank containers (TC), 20- or 40-foot box containers, 20-foot thermo boxes or small IBC containers. Of course, if required, the containers can be supplied with electrical cooling or heating; for example, tank containers up to 120 °C.

Should you rent or buy? We can provide you with expert advice and will also be happy to assist you in purchasing your own containers.

Secure capacities.

Since 1987 the volume of container handling at Chemion has quadrupled. With storage capacities up to 1,760 TEU on approx. 26,000 m², Chemion is one of the top 10 German terminal operators: All our terminals are primarily designed to store hazardous goods containers. Apart from transshipment and warehousing, we offer many other value-added services concerning the container.

The robot grinds and polishes.

Efficiency advantage due to pioneering technology: Chemion relies on an industrial robot developed in Finland for the fast, highly professional and economic internal processing of tank containers. The Robogrind robot grinds and polishes the interior wall in order to eliminate corrosion damage caused by transported or stored contents. No more than twelve of these robots are in use worldwide, only two of them in Germany. They considerably shorten the processing time of the containers.

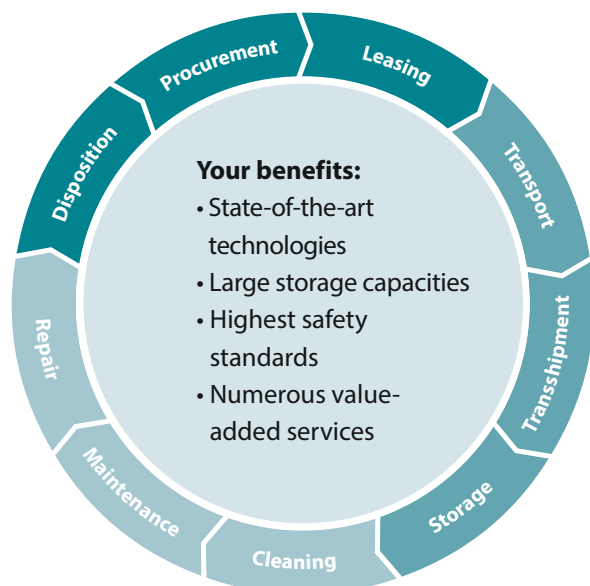

This innovative measure supplements Chemion's comprehensive spectrum of maintenance services – with the aim of extending the service life of tank containers.
